Cuchulainn. You imp!" he	said . But at this moment another	1107	other dark as :night, they	said that the high gods, who	1264
have lied to me! You	said . You have lied to me	1115	You cannot cross it,"	said Ferdia, " for this is	1285
who advised it and I	said that Cathbad told you to	1115	to teach you feats,"	said Cuchulainn. " Only by two	1286
tell you, Cathbad," he	said it was Cathbad: which was	1116	the door. " Truly,"	said Scáth, " this must be	1290 for the boy !" he	said to the druid, " that	1118	word. One day little Setanta	said to his mother, " I	1303 will serve Ulster yet,"	said . King Conachar's chariot was as	1124	for thee, little son,"	said his mother gently. The boy	1304
go with you now,"	said , " and let him come	1137	hard, little boy," he	said sternly, " thou art not	1312 to wait for you,"	said Setanta, when they had called	1138	I knew it not,"	said Setanta. " I ask their	1316 track of the chariots,"	said the King. " There is	1139	Boys, do you hear ? "	said the King. " Will you	1317 be merry. And then Cullan	said Setanta. So Conchubhar went on	1140	We grant it freely,"	said the boys. Back to the	1318
" "There will not,"	said to the King, " Will	1143	savage ? " I swear "	said Setanta, " that they must	1321 ask me that ? " he	said Conchubhar, for he forgot that	1144	thee ? " I will,"	said the boy. Then the right	1324 have a fierce hound,"	said . "I have a fierce hound	1144	of my fierce hound,"	said Culann. " He is loosed	1339
" "Loose him out,"	said the smith, " and when	1145	" Loose the hound,"	said the king. "Set him free	1340
and he came in and	said : "It is no good luck	1150	fault, if he dies,"	said Culann, " will be thine	1347 against the little lad ? "	said to Setanta, "There is no	1152	so angry, O Culann,"	said Setanta, " I myself will	1354
this feast for yourself,"	said Conchubhar. "It was no good	1153	learn skill in arms,"	said Cuchulain. " This is not	1369
And, little boy," he	said the smith, " for now	1154	do by any means,"	said Ferdia, " none of us	1379
	said , "that was a good member	1154

I will do it,"	said Cuchulain, and before anyone could	1380	let me go," he	said to her, day after day	1549 of champions has come,"	said Scatach. Great was her surprise	1382	will come with us,"	said the king. But Setanta was	1567 was sure to ensue. Cuchulain	said farewell. It was time for	1384	For, if so," he	said , " I shall set free	1572
Who is he ? " she	said eagerly. " Cuchulain's friend, Ferdia	1395	We are all here,"	said Conor, still forgetting young Setanta	1573 bronze. " O Ferdia,"	said Cuchulain when they met, "	1403	the shout. " Setanta ! they	said . " It is the voice	1577
It is thy choice,"	said Ferdia. "Then let it be	1404	gold and silver," he	said , " now that my dog	1582 are you doing here ? "	said the big black man to	1424	will be your watch-dog,"	said Setanta. " I will guard	1583 and heroism from Donnell,"	said the little lad. " If	1425	grown." "That is well	said , " cried the king, and	1584
you will learn them,"	said the big black man. "	1426	`He was reared,' Fergus	said , 'by his father and mother	1594

the end of time,"	said the big black man. "	1430	can't go," his mother	said , "until there are some Ulster	1595
We will not come,"	said they, " for last night	1434	long to wait," Cuchulainn	said . "Point me out the way	1596
the door. " Truly,"	said Scáth, " this must be	1449	"Northwards there," his mother	said . "But it is a hard	1597 days unlucky. "Any lad,"	said Caffa, "who takes arms to-day	1459	way." "Still," Cuchulainn	said , "I will try it."	1598
ask of me now?"	said the king. " I want	1461	fellow is from Ulster,"	said Follamain, Conchobor's son, "and yet	1602
king. " I want,"	said he, "to take arms as	1462	Emain. `Nine of them', Fergus	said , `flew past Conchobor and myself-we	1606 to ask for this?"	said the king, surprised. " My	1463	being roughly handled," Conchobor	said . "I am in the right	1607 weapons are no good,"	said he; " they are only	1467	right, friend Conchobor," he	said . "I left my home, and	1608
" Here, my lad,"	said he, " are my own	1468	son are you?" Conchobor	said . "What is your name?"	1609
arms are good," he	said . " They do not break	1470	the boys' protection?" Conchobor	said . "I knew nothing about that	1610
" " He is,"	said the king. " Unhappy is	1472	nothing about that," Cuchulainn	said , "but I ask your protection	1611
son takes arms to-day,"	said Caffa. " Mad boy,"	1475	"You have it," Conchobor	said . `Then he turned away to	1612
" " Indeed no,"	said the king, " what made	1476	to them now?" Conchobor	said . "Offer them my protection,"	1614
Caffa. " Mad boy,"	said that it would be a	1477	them my protection," Cuchulainn	said . "Promise it here and now	1614
a lucky day, and he	said Calla. " But I said	1478	here and now," Conchobor	said . "I promise," Cuchulainn said	1615
" " True enough,"	said , too, that any lad who	1478	said. "I promise," Cuchulainn	said . `Then everybody went out to	1616
